Casa Gratitude is a retreat designed to connect with what truly matters. Set in the heart of El Valle de Antón, it sits at the base of three mountains that form one of the valley's most pristine natural reserves. The neighborhood is small, private, and defined by residents who value calm, authenticity, and a lifestyle in harmony with nature. The home was designed by its architect-owner as a sanctuary away from the city. Natural clay brick, bamboo, wood, and glass shape a contemporary tropical design where light, air, and gardens flow freely. With 2,500 m<sup>2</sup> of land and 320 m<sup>2</sup> of living space, every detail reflects authenticity and connection. Casa Gratitude is singularly different — not just another weekend house in El Valle, but a space of escape and creation. Perfect for architects, designers, or anyone seeking a place where creativity and nature converge. At its center, an open social area unites living, dining, and kitchen. Large glass doors dissolve boundaries between indoors and outdoors, making the garden part of everyday life. Two spacious bedrooms, each with private baths, extend directly to the greenery. A mezzanine overlooks it all, offering space for an office, studio, or family room. Life here moves at a different rhythm. Morning mist, afternoons with open doors, evenings under a sky full of stars. Casa Gratitude is not only a home — it is a crafted refuge. Contact us to schedule a private viewing.
